Chapter 5 by dragonsofyore

I ran, just as she told me, hide the power,

From the enemy.

Chapter 6 by SaintSayaka

My legs did not take me far before the opposing pack took chase, following me down the cliffs and through the valleys. I could not stop, in fear of being caught.

As next in line, I could not be caught.

Chapter 7 by Mica Key

I ran, exposing my power trying to hide it.

He desperately tries to bite me he misses, and I continue to run my power taking over making me faster.

This makes the predator chase me even more and eventually the power spills over and it takes over.

The enemy stopped and looked at what I had become, I could not look him straight in the eye.

Chapter 8 by Dan_K

The power encompassed me, formed me, made me. It lifted me off the ground.

The dark night and cold winter only made me go faster.

The enemy chased. It went on, thinking it would win. Thinking that just because I was one of them, I would be like them. No, no, the enemy was wrong.

I was more powerful, I was stronger. He was no match to my power. He just hoped that he would get near to me again, he wanted to see me dead in the snow, bleeding from a wound he had given me.

Right as I escalated my body to a point where I was beyond humanity—the lights came on.

every step. Tap. Tap. Tap. I was confused, I didn't understand what I was feeling. I was being pulled in.

"How are you feeling?" She asked. I snapped out of it. Everything felt normal. My arms, legs, chest, head, nauseous and aching. My heart pounding as fast as it was when I was running. I looked outside the hospital window.

The snow falls fast.
